Behaviour Use of Force and Exclusion Policy

This is a single policy which has been written on behalf of the Governing Body for Crockerton Church of England VA Primary School.

Written	September 2015
Reviewed	September 2016
Author	Headteacher, ratified by the Standards Committee
Next Review	September 2017

The Behaviour Policy is based on principles that:

- Children respond best to praise, encouragement and reward
- Positive comments and response should be given wherever possible as opposed to the negative.

The whole school community is firmly committed to this philosophy. We believe that discipline is a joint responsibility of parents and school staff.

Each class will have a set of Golden Rules negotiated, discussed and agreed upon by the children. These rules are based on the premise that the children are in school to learn, and the staff to teach or supervise. Each class has its rules displayed in the classroom. They vary slightly from class to class, but are basically:-

1. We listen carefully to others and follow instructions.
2. We always do our best.
3. We do not disturb others in any way.
4. We are kind and thoughtful to others.
5. We move around the School carefully and safely.
6. We look after all property.

Children following these rules can expect:-

- Praise
- Stickers
- Stamps on reward charts
- House points
- To be congratulated and celebrated in Sharing Assemblies or in the Newsletter.
- A Headteacher's special 'postcard' for excellent contribution towards the life of the school.
- A 'GEM Power of the Week' certificate.
- 'SPOTS'- children are spotted by staff and pupils being positive role models. A coloured spot is displayed on the 'Spotty' board

Stars will be given for special work and contribution above and beyond the normal expectation. Bronze, Silver or Gold Badges will then be awarded in recognition of a number of stars achieved. The Headteacher is always happy to give children a 'special' sticker.

A 'House' system is in place. The child will remain in their nominated 'House' throughout their time at Crockerton. Points will be given for positive contributions in group or team activities.

Any additional rewards that staff may wish to give in recognition of special achievements should reflect the school's policy on 'Healthy Eating' (i.e. no sweets or chocolate).

The consequences for inappropriate behaviour are:

- a) A look
- b) A warning
- c) 'Thinking Chair' (away from friends, in order to calm down, reflect, work appropriately again)
- d) Time out of playtime and/or lunchtime (to talk to an adult about appropriate and responsible behaviour and/or to catch up on missed work)
- e) Time out of the classroom with either Deputy Head or Head
- f) Verbal report to parent- this may include missed work to be completed at home.
- g) Telephone call or letter to parent.
- h) Exclusion (following the Exclusion Policy)

At lunchtimes a 'strike' sheet system is used by the MDSAs to modify behaviour. If a child receives three strikes he/she will be excluded from the 'play' at lunchtime and given an appropriate activity to complete.

Within the Christian ethos of the school, forgiveness is fostered and the acceptance that none of us are perfect, therefore each day is a fresh start though consequences for the misbehaviour may still need to be followed.

Learning Behaviours

We believe that certain skills are needed to ensure success in learning and in life. We link these skills to gems- 'Gem Power'

Diamond Power- problem solving

Ruby Power- empathy

Emerald Power- resilience

Sapphire Power- managing distractions

The class earns gems as they demonstrate these skills. An individual child may earn a gem certificate for independently demonstrating a gem power.

In common with all schools, it is never our policy to administer corporal punishment. Staff will only use force in line with Department for Education guidelines (see following pages).

Use of Force and Restraint

The staff has decided to adopt the guidance from the Department for Education on the 'Use of Reasonable Force'. This guidance is attached below:

About this guidance

This is non-statutory advice from the Department for Education. It is intended confident about using this power when they feel it is necessary and to make clear the responsibilities of head teachers and governing bodies in respect of this power.

This advice replaces "The use of force to control and restrain pupils – Guidance for schools in England".

What legislation does this guidance relate to?

Education Act 1996

Education and Inspections Act 2006.

Who is this advice for?

This advice is aimed at governing bodies, head teachers and school staff in all schools

Key points

- School staff have a legal power to use force and lawful use of the power will provide a defence to any related criminal prosecution or other legal action.
- Suspension should not be an automatic response when a member of staff has been accused of using excessive force.
- Senior school leaders should support their staff when they use this power

1. What is reasonable force?

- 1) The term 'reasonable force' covers the broad range of actions used by most teachers at some point in their career that involve a degree of physical contact with pupils.
- 2) Force is usually used either to control or restrain. This can range from guiding a pupil to safety by the arm through to more extreme circumstances such as breaking up a fight or where a student needs to be restrained to prevent violence or injury.
- 3) 'Reasonable in the circumstances' means using no more force than is needed.
- 4) As mentioned above, schools generally use force to control pupils and to restrain them. Control means either passive physical contact, such as standing between pupils or blocking a pupil's path, or active physical contact such as leading a pupil by the arm out of a classroom.
- 5) Restraint means to hold back physically or to bring a pupil under control. It is typically used in more extreme circumstances, for example when two pupils are fighting and refuse to separate without physical intervention.
- 6) School staff should always try to avoid acting in a way that might cause injury, but in extreme cases it may not always be possible to avoid injuring the pupil.

2. Who can use reasonable force?

- 1) All members of school staff have a legal power to use reasonable force (as defined in section 93 of the Education and Inspections Act 2006)
- 2) This power applies to any member of staff at the school. It can also apply to people whom the head teacher has temporarily put in charge of pupils such as unpaid volunteers or parents accompanying students on a school organised visit.

3. When can reasonable force be used?

- 1) Reasonable force can be used to prevent pupils from hurting themselves or others, from damaging property or from causing disorder.
- 2) In a school, force is used for two main purposes – to control pupils or to restrain them.
- 3) The decision on whether or not to physically intervene is down to the professional judgement of the staff member concerned and should always depend on the individual circumstances.
- 4) The following list is not exhaustive but provides some examples of situations where reasonable force can and cannot be used.

Schools can use reasonable force to:

- remove disruptive children from the classroom where they have refused to follow an instruction to do so;
- prevent a pupil behaving in a way that disrupts a school event or a school trip or visit;
- prevent a pupil leaving the classroom where allowing the pupil to leave would risk their safety or lead to behaviour that disrupts the behaviour of others;
- prevent a pupil from attacking a member of staff or another pupil, or to stop a fight in the playground; and
- restrain a pupil at risk of harming themselves through physical outbursts.

Schools cannot:

- use force as a punishment – it is always unlawful to use force as a punishment.

4. Power to search pupils without consent

- 1) In addition to the general power to use reasonable force described above, head teachers and authorised staff can use such force as is reasonable given the circumstances to conduct a search for the following “prohibited items” (Section 550ZB(5) of the Education Act 1996)
 - knives and weapons
 - alcohol
 - illegal drugs
 - stolen items
 - tobacco and cigarette papers
 - fireworks
 - pornographic images
 - any article that has been or is likely to be used to commit an offence, cause personal injury or damage to property.

Force cannot be used to search for items banned under the school rules.

Separate guidance is available on the power to search without consent – see the Associated Resources section for a link to this document

5. Communicating the school’s approach to the use of force

- 1) Every school is required by law to have a behaviour policy and to make this policy known to staff, parents and pupils. The governing body should notify the head teacher that it expects the school behaviour policy to include the power to use reasonable force.
- 2) There is no legal requirement to have a policy on the use of force but it is good practice to set out, in the behaviour policy, the circumstances in which force might be used. For example, it could say that teachers will physically separate pupils found fighting or that if a pupil refuses to leave a room when instructed to do so, they will be physically removed.
- 3) Any policy on the use of reasonable force should acknowledge their legal duty to make reasonable adjustments for children with disabilities and children with special educational needs (SEN).
- 4) Schools do not require parental consent to use force on a student.

- 5) Schools should not have a 'no contact' policy. There is a real risk that such a policy might place a member of staff in breach of their duty of care towards a pupil, or prevent them taking action needed to prevent a pupil causing harm.
- 6) By taking steps to ensure that staff, pupils and parents are clear about when force might be used, the school will reduce the likelihood of complaints being made when force has been used properly

6. Using force

A panel of experts (Physical Control in Care Medical Panel - 2008) identified that certain restraint techniques presented an unacceptable risk when used on children and young people. The techniques in question are:

- the 'seated double embrace' which involves two members of staff forcing a person into a sitting position and leaning them forward, while a third monitors breathing;
- the 'double basket-hold' which involves holding a person's arms across their chest; and
- the 'nose distraction technique' which involves a sharp upward jab under the nose.

7. Staff training-September 2015- All staff completed TEAM TEACH training

- 1) Schools need to take their own decisions about staff training. The head teacher should consider whether members of staff require any additional training to enable them to carry out their responsibilities and should consider the needs of the pupils when doing so.
- 2) Some local authorities provide advice and guidance to help schools to develop an appropriate training programme.

8. Telling parents when force has been used on their child-All incidents are recorded in the 'Record of Incident Involving Restrictive Physical Intervention' book

- 1) It is good practice for schools to speak to parents about serious incidents involving the use of force and to consider how best to record such serious incidents. It is up to schools to decide whether it is appropriate to report the use of force to parents / carers.
- 2) In deciding what is a serious incident, teachers should use their professional judgement and consider the:
 - pupil's behaviour and level of risk presented at the time of the incident;
 - degree of force used;
 - effect on the pupil or member of staff; and
 - the child's age.

9. What happens if a pupil complains when force is used on them?

- 1) All complaints about the use of force should be thoroughly, speedily and appropriately investigated.
- 2) Where a member of staff has acted within the law – that is, they have used reasonable force in order to prevent injury, damage to property or disorder – this will provide a defence to any criminal prosecution or other civil or public law action.
- 3) When a complaint is made the onus is on the person making the complaint to prove that his/her allegations are true – it is not for the member of staff to show that he/she has acted reasonably.

- 4) Suspension must not be an automatic response when a member of staff has been accused of using excessive force. Schools should refer to the "Dealing with Allegations of Abuse against Teachers and Other Staff" guidance (see Associated Resources section below) where an allegation of using excessive force is made against a teacher. This guidance makes clear that a person must not be suspended automatically, or without careful thought.
- 5) Schools must consider carefully whether the circumstances of the case warrant a person being suspended until the allegation is resolved or whether alternative arrangements are more appropriate.
- 6) If a decision is taken to suspend a teacher, the school should ensure that the teacher has access to a named contact who can provide support.
- 7) Governing bodies should always consider whether a teacher has acted within the law when reaching a decision on whether or not to take disciplinary action against the teacher.
- 8) As employers, schools and local authorities have a duty of care towards their employees. It is important that schools provide appropriate pastoral care to any member of staff who is subject to a formal allegation following a use of force incident.

10. What about other physical contact with pupils?

- 1) It is not illegal to touch a pupil. There are occasions when physical contact, other than reasonable force, with a pupil is proper and necessary.
- 2) Examples of where touching a pupil might be proper or necessary:
 - Holding the hand of the child at the front/back of the line when going to assembly or when walking together around the school;
 - When comforting a distressed pupil;
 - When a pupil is being congratulated or praised;
 - To demonstrate how to use a musical instrument;
 - To demonstrate exercises or techniques during PE lessons or sports coaching; and
 - To give first aid.

Frequently Asked Questions

I'm worried that if I use force a pupil or parent could make a complaint against me.

Am I protected?

Yes, if you have acted lawfully. If the force used is reasonable all staff will have a robust defence against any accusations.

How do I know whether using a physical intervention is 'reasonable'?

The decision on whether to physically intervene is down to the professional judgement of the teacher concerned. Whether the force used is reasonable will always depend on the particular circumstances of the case. The use of force is reasonable if it is proportionate to the consequences it is intended to prevent. This means the degree of force used should be no more than is needed to achieve the desired result. School staff should expect the full backing of their senior leadership team when they have used force.

What about school trips?

The power may be used where the member of staff is lawfully in charge of the pupils, and this includes while on school trips.

Can force be used on pupils with SEN or disabilities?

Yes, but the judgement on whether to use force should not only depend on the circumstances of the case but also on information and understanding of the needs of the pupil concerned.

I'm a female teacher with a Year 10 class - there's no way I'd want to restrain or try to control my pupils. Am I expected to do so?

There is a power, not a duty, to use force so members of staff have discretion whether or not to use it. However, teachers and other school staff have a duty of care towards their pupils and it might be argued that failing to take action (including a failure to use reasonable force) may in some circumstances breach that duty.

Are there any circumstances in which a teacher can use physical force to punish a pupil?

No. It is always unlawful to use force as a punishment. This is because it would fall within the definition of corporal punishment, which is illegal

Exclusions

Exclusion will take place as a result of a serious breach of discipline which has arisen at school. Only the Head-teacher has the right to exclude a pupil. Exclusion will be enforced when other pupils or members of staff are deemed to be seriously affected by that pupil's presence in school.

Exclusion from Crockerton School is a punishment. The parents, guardians or child minder need to support the school's decision and according to recent legislation, the child must not be found in a public place during the exclusion period or parents may be subject to a fixed penalty notice.

The school will supply the 'carer' with work that the child should complete in order that time out is not perceived by the child as an 'easy option'.

Fixed Term Exclusion

For between 1 and 15 days depending on the seriousness of the offence.

1. The parents of the pupil will be informed that the pupil has been excluded and why. This will be done immediately by telephone if possible and then confirmed in writing. Parents will be informed of the period of exclusion and the reason for it. A proforma will be sent to the Chair of Governors and the LA.
2. The parents will be informed in the letter, that they may make representations about the exclusion to the Governing Body. Parents have the right to attend an exclusion meeting with governors and the letter will tell parents who to contact and will invite them to write asking for a meeting.
3. If parents reply saying they wish to meet with the Governors a meeting will be set up preferably on the day the pupil returns to school. They may bring a 'friend' to the meeting to support them. The purpose of this meeting is to explore the support that the school and the parents need to give the child to help improve his/her behaviour and for the parents to raise any concerns with the governors.

Returning to School

When the excluded pupil returns to school, there will be a 're-entry' interview with the pupil and his/her parents, class teacher, Head-teacher and probably a governor.

Both the school and the parents will agree the support the child needs to help improve his/her behaviour and if necessary a 'Behaviour Plan' will be drawn up between the School, the family and the pupil.

Permanent Exclusion

Permanent exclusion will result for very serious breaches of the behaviour code or continuous flouting of the code, which would seriously harm the education or welfare of the pupil or others in the school if s/he were allowed to remain.

1. The school will inform the parents by telephone that the pupil has been excluded and why, and will be asked to collect the pupil from the school. The exclusion will be confirmed in writing. Proformas will be sent to the Chairman of Governors and the LA.
2. The parents may make representations about the permanent exclusion to the Governing Body who will set up a meeting of their Disciplinary Committee (consisting of 3 governors) to review the case. An LA representative will attend this meeting. All paperwork, including witness statements, will be sent to all involved in the case prior to the meeting.

The Disciplinary Committee will decide to either uphold the Head-teacher's decision or rescind it. If it is upheld the parents have the right to appeal to the LA.
